Central Oregon Community College is celebrating its 75th anniversary, with the celebration to cap off the academic year set for May.

In the meantime, the college's anniversary committee has created display boards on all four COCC campuses that recount the history of the college, as well as a website with an interactive timeline. Student orientation begins Monday, and the term starts next week, so classes will soon be back in session.

The Bulletin wants to hear from the COCC community. Whether you're an alumnus, former faculty or a community member who was impacted by the college, write to us and share your memories and stories.
